There are some flowers in the yard that can be dried satisfactorily. These flowers are: Baby's breath, Cockscomb, Amaranth, Goldenrod, Yarrow. Now's the time to gather your collection.

Erosion cost can erode savings. Therefore with house payments, insurance premiums, food costs and other family needs, a budget if plans are not carefully followed.

* * *

Developing a budget is a good way of determining what your income will be.

Estimate costs for four people eating at home 14 days is a point from which to begin. Add to this cost for clothes, travel, amusements, hobbies and tips.

Consider trips, renting a cottage and preparing at least a few of your meals are ways to cut costs.

Remember, budgeting is simply a planned form of money management.

The credit card has hit the scene. Students attending school this fall need only a card to matriculate.

Farmers in particular should not overlook the possibility of growing barley up as silage.

* * *

I have observed some injury to corn from the Army Worm last week. You should check your fields for damage. If one of these shows injury, considering spraying, higher rates dependent on spraying.

* * *

Many farmers at the Orange Experimental Station has compiled data on 1970 corn varieties and Orange showing plants per acre, yield in bushels and tons of silage and percent grain in the Silage.

Although this data arrived too late for a great deal of value this year it is important data and all silage producers should ask for a copy.

For example, highest yielder was Taylor Evans Massey, lowest yielder was Pioneer 324. Highest yielder of silage was Pioneer 350, lowest was Funk G. Were Todd 29A and Pioneer 219, Silage with highest grain was DeKalb 18 with lowest percent grain was Pioneer 390.

This is the kind of data that's important in developing a good feeding program.

Soybeans will soon be the second largest crop in this county. Corn is still Number 1 with 70 million acres, beans may hit 50 million this year. Wheat is fading into third place.

So will you be risking your future in beans? We don't think so. Acreage's expansion is not going fast enough. Even with a jump of several million acres this year – supply will remain tight.

Last week soybean futures were over $3.00 a bushel.

'Best Oat Crop'

Ed Harvey of Evergreen is one of two farmers growing the new Compact oat this year. Ed admits this is probably the best oat he has used. It was seeded in late Sept. at the rate of three bushels per acre. A two bushel seeding rate would probably have reduced the problem of lodging. He broadcast 400 pounds of 10-20-20 at seeding and top dressed with 50 pounds of nitrogen this spring. Compact averaged for a two year period 102 bushels at the Orange station, 77 bushels at Petersburg, 104 at Warsaw and in 1970, the Charlotte C. H. station reported 103 bushels. This is a new variety that more farmers will want to use for seeding this fall, J. A. Smith, extension agent, pointed out.
